

Boozers to Get Boot from All Coliseum Events

Strict enforcement of county ordinances banning liquor in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum was assured Supervisor Kenneth Hahn this week by Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz.

Supervisor Hahn asked for stricter enforcement after he had received a complaint from Torrance City Councilman Willys G. Blount about the conduct and language of persons under the influence of liquor at a recent football game.

"The Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum was, I believe, dedicated to the memory of those who gave their lives in World War I and the conduct and language of some of the persons under the influence of liquor is not in keeping with the spirit of such dedication—neither is it conducive to clean, wholesome events in the Coliseum," Supervisor Hahn said.

Sheriff Biscailuz reported to the supervisor that "immediately upon receipt of your letter orders were issued to the captain of the Coliseum detail to

Kitty Turns Night Into 'Dog's Life'

A policeman's life sometimes is "a dog's life." At other times it's even worse. Like this incident, lifted from the Torrance Police "blotter."

"8:50 p.m. Mrs. Martell B. Harris, of 144 Camino de las Colinas, called reporting a skunk in her garage. Carr 44—Officers William Crow and Phillip Wilson detailed.

"8:55 p.m. Car 44 reports they have the skunk trapped in the garage and request permission to shoot same. Watch commander granted permission.

"9:25 p.m. Car 44 returns to station. Watch commander, Lieutenant Swain Johnson, noticed peculiar odor when officers arrived at station and that odor was emitting from them. Officers detailed to walk a beat for the remainder of the shift."

Supervisors Honor Bank's Anniversary

Designation of Thursday as Bank of America Day in Los Angeles County in tribute to the institution's 50th anniversary celebration was voted last week by the Board of Supervisors.

In a resolution introduced by Supervisor Burton W. Chace, the board praised the bank for being "a dynamic force in the economic, business and civic life of our state" for half a century.

High tribute was paid to the late A. P. Giannini, founder of the bank, for his "faith, vision and foresight in creating one of the greatest institutions in American banking."

An engrossed copy of the resolution, signed by all the supervisors, was presented to A. J. Gock, chairman of the Bank of America Board, by Chace this week.
